"Drury's Illustrations of Insects" drawn on Vellum by Moses Harris the Artist

Moses Harris was a celebrated London copper-plate engraver, born about 1734.

He illustrated Drury's Illustrations of Natural History, and other works.

His own works are,

1) "The Aurelian", which is supposed to have been issued in parts; and of which there are several editions, from 1766 to 1794 in English and French also a later one (1840) by Westwood (now obsolete)

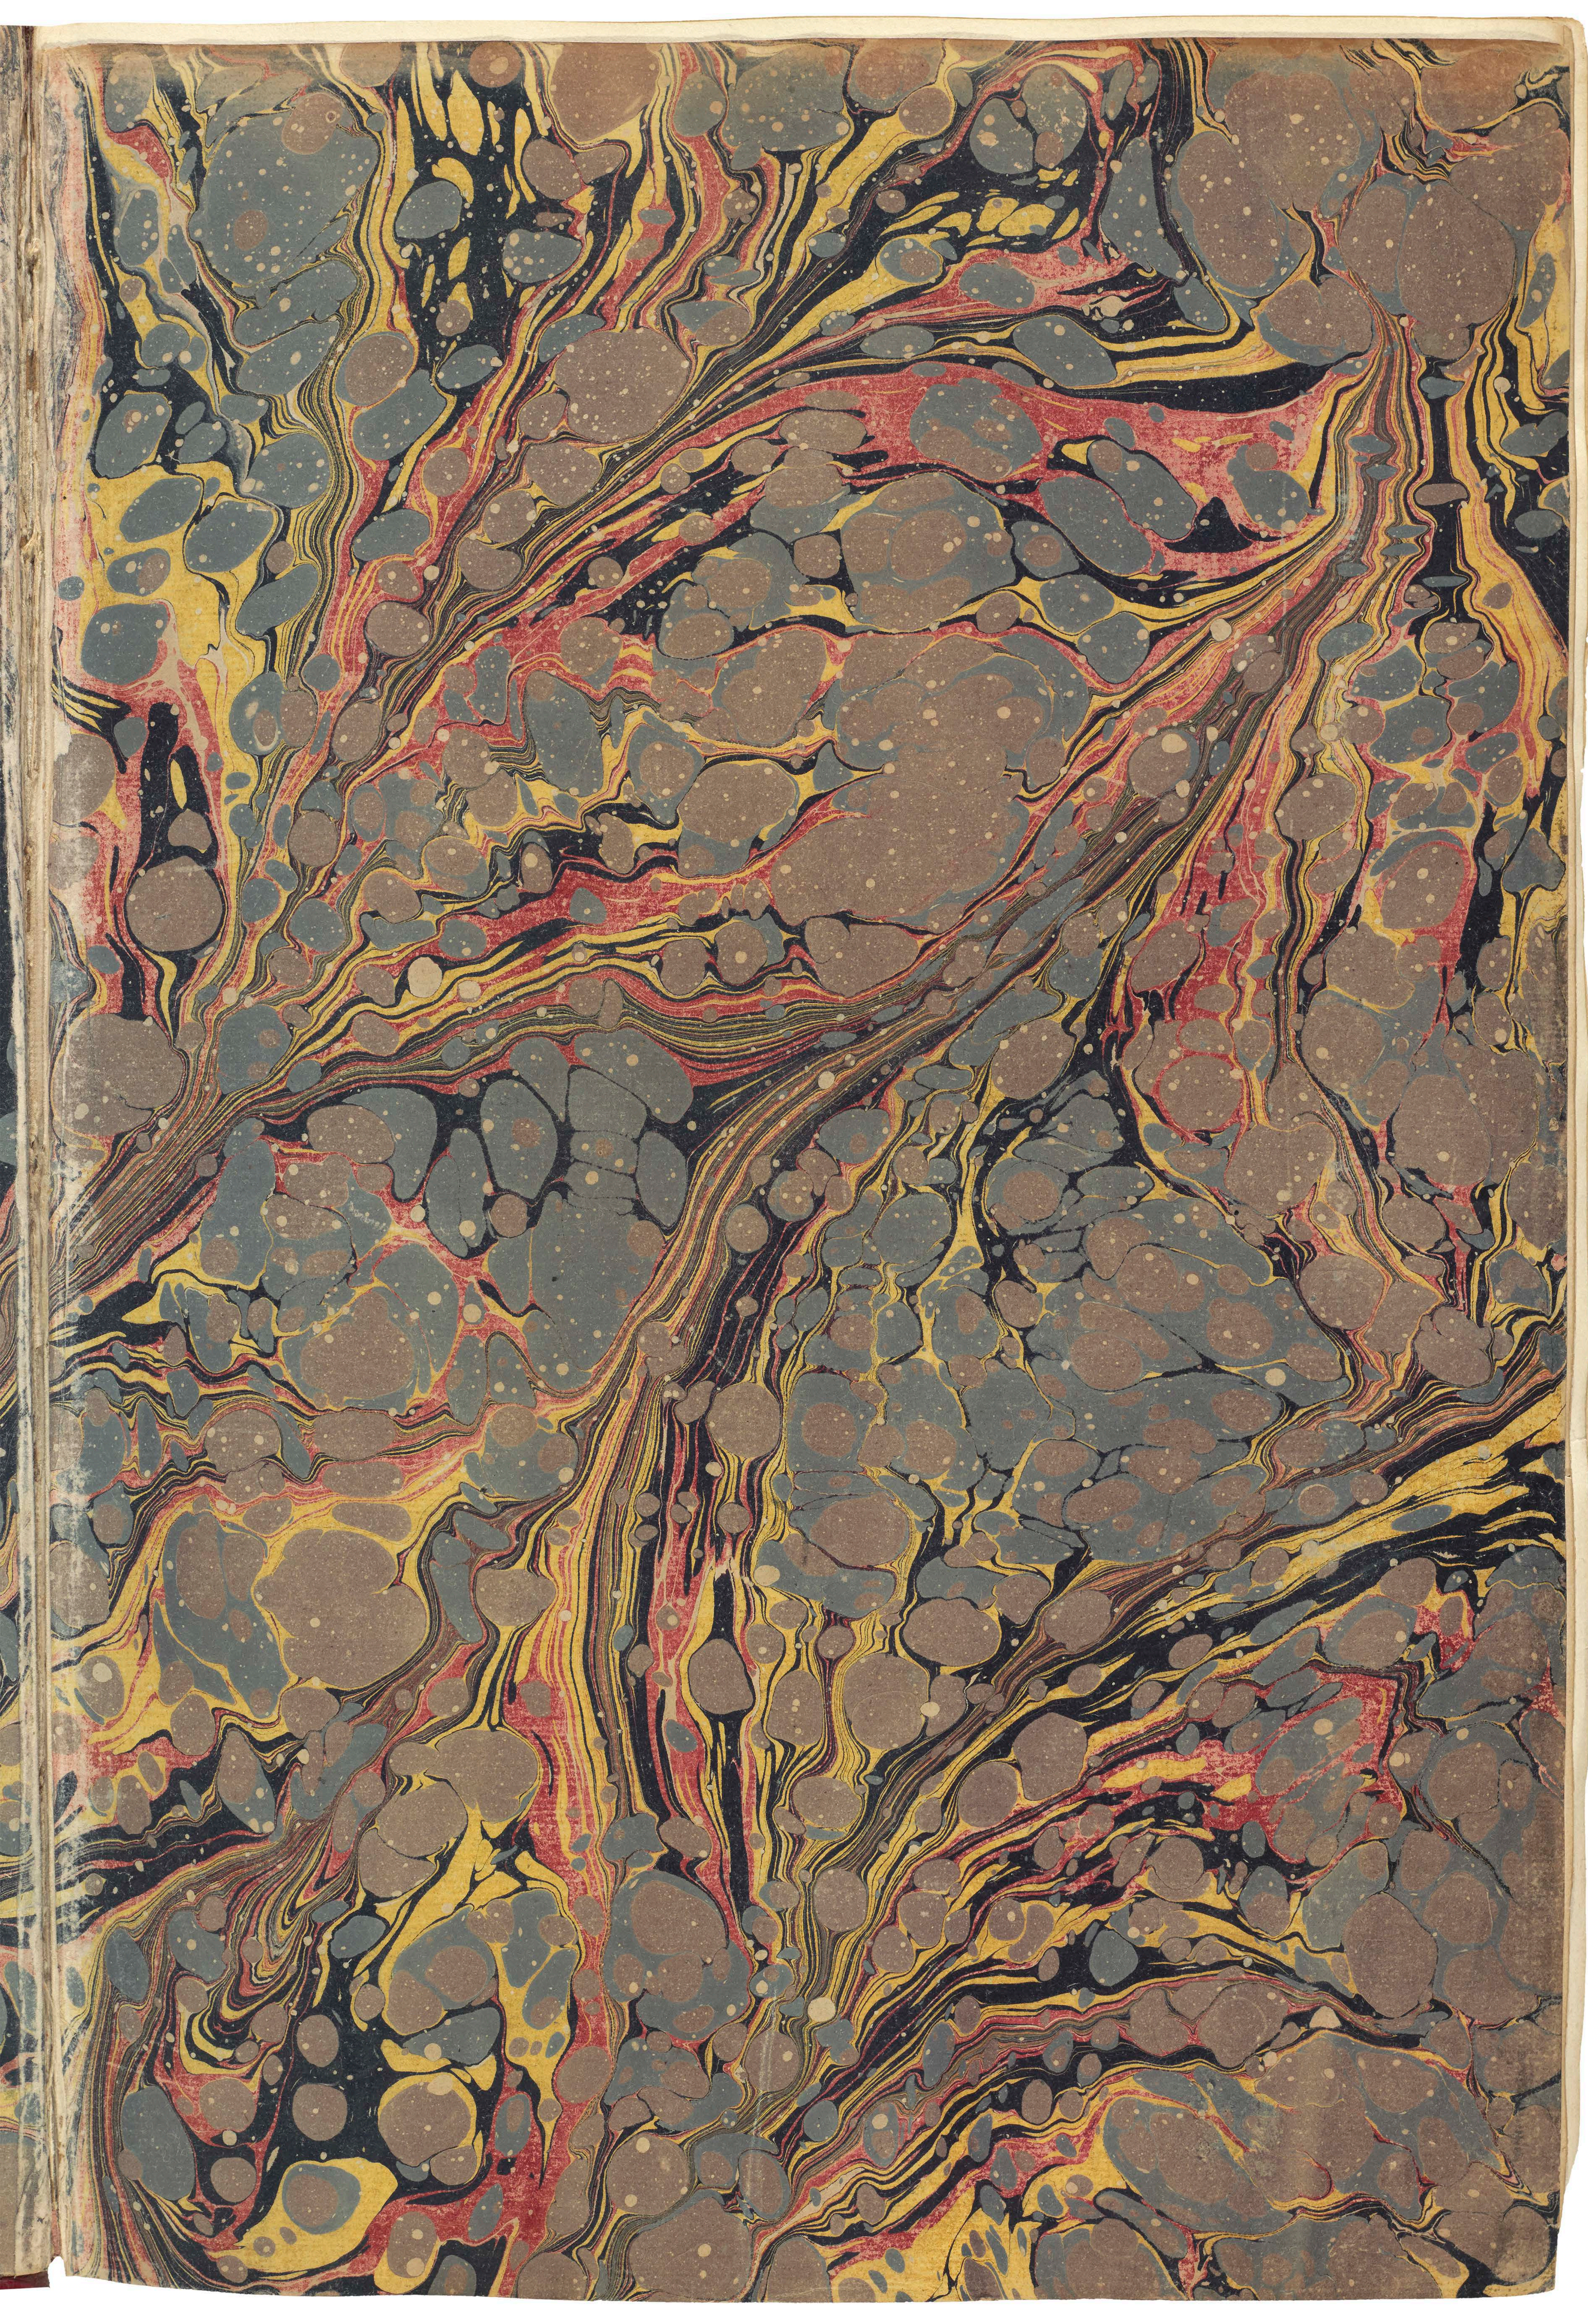

2) An Essay preceding a Supplement to the Aurelian (1767)

(3) The English Lepidoptera, or the Aurelian's Pocket Companion. 1775 (? also 1765 and 1786?)

(4) An Exposition of English Insects (3 editions, 1776-1782) a book still of some scientific importance
